Are you scaling a startup but don ' t belong to the fortunate few who have done so multiple times already? Many startup builders simply do not have the time to read countless books and listen to dozens of podcasts while distilling all this information down into practical lessons. That ' s why The Builder ' s Guide to the Tech Galaxy: 99 Practices to Scale Startups into Unicorn Companies does it for you. Drawing on their decades of experience, Martin Schilling and Thomas Klugkist interviewed 100 top scale-up experts from successful technology companies around the world, including Airbnb, Pinterest, N26, Zalando, Salesforce, Wayfair, AWS, GetYourGuide, Klarna, and Hubspot to create a handbook for startup employees, leaders, future founders, investors, corporate innovation hubs, and anyone else who is interested in entrepreneurship and scaling a technology company within months rather than years. The Builder ' s Guide to the Tech Galaxy doesn ' t focus on how to go from zero to one or on how to take a unicorn to IPO. Instead, it focuses on the critical scale-up stage in the middle. During this transition, four building blocks matter in particular: a clear North Star to align the company ' s direction, an AAA team, functional excellence in deeply specialized teams, and enough growth capital. The authors cover each of these topics in-depth as part of their 99 practices: • Exemplary organizational charts, objectives, and key results (OKRs) for divisions such as Technology & Product Management, Marketing, B2B Sales, People, Service Operations, and Supply Change • Tools and benchmarks for the strategic alignment of the company to a North Star, including purpose, value proposition, and business ambition • Tips and templates to attract and retain an AAA team with the right scale-up mindset • Checklist to attract growth capital and negotiate term sheets Whether your company has ten or a hundred employees, em style="color: #0ff111";The Builder ' s Guide to the Tech Galaxy is the essential playbook to scale successfully.Are you scaling a startup but don ' t belong to the fortunate few who have done so multiple times already?
